

[REPLACE WITH YOUR PHOTO]

3XPLOREWITHUS · GUIDE

YOUR GUIDE TITLE HERE

A short description of what this guide covers, who it's for, and what they'll take away. Keep it to 1–2 sentences.

IN THIS GUIDE

CONTENTS

01

Introduction

The story behind this guide and how to use it

02

Getting Started

What you need to know before you begin

03

The Main Topic

Deep-dive into the core information

04

Practical Tips

Hands-on advice you can use right away

05

Common Mistakes

What to avoid – and how to recover if you don't

06

Resources Links

Everything referenced, all in one place

01 – SECTION ONE

Your Section Heading Here

This is where your body content goes. Write clearly and directly — your readers are overlanders and adventurers who value honest, practical information over filler. Keep paragraphs short. Share what you actually know from experience.

Continue with a second paragraph here. You can expand on the topic, add context, or transition into your next point. Aim for 3–5 sentences per block.

[REPLACE WITH YOUR PHOTO]

Caption: Location, year, any relevant note about the image.

TIP

Use this callout box for tips, pro advice, or things you wish someone had told you. Keep it brief — one clear, actionable point works best here.

Pick up the main content again below the callout. This is a good place to transition to the next sub-section or wrap up the current point.

The road doesn't care about your plans.
It only cares that you're moving.

— JASON & MAREIKE, 3XPLOREWITHUS

Replace with a quote from your guide content.

02 – SECTION TWO

Sub Section Heading

Column one goes here. This two-column layout works well when comparing two options, listing gear for different climates, or presenting parallel information side by side. Keep each column to one clear idea.

Column two goes here. Aim to keep both columns roughly the same length so the page feels balanced. If one is much longer, split the content into separate sections instead.

IMPORTANT

Use this red box for warnings, legal notes, permit requirements, or anything time-sensitive. Keep it punchy — if it needs more than 2 sentences, it belongs in the main body text instead.

USEFUL LINKS

Resource or link name — one-line description of what it is

Resource or link name — one-line description of what it is

Resource or link name — one-line description of what it is

Living life on the road, one border at a time.

FOLLOW THE JOURNEY

@3xplorewithus · YouTube · Instagram

www.3xplorewithus.com

Want more in-depth guides? Join our Patreon — coming soon.

Made with love by 3xploreWithUs

Free to share with anyone who loves adventure.

© 2026 3xploreWithUs — not for commercial resale